TELLS OF NEW
BEET PROCESS

INVENTOR DESCRIBES TESTS IN DRYING COSETTES.

SUGAR PRODUCED CHEAPLY
Output of Every Factory Could Be Increased Five Times by Establishing Dry Plants.

George W. McMullen of Chicago in the last issue of The American Sugar Industry and Beet Sugar Gazette fully describes his experiments in drying sugar beet cosettes, the invention of which process was first announced by The Janesville Gazette some months ago when sixteen hundred pounds of Rock county grown beets were purchased through Walter Helms of this city for tests at Simmons and Menominee, Mich. As the discovery may revolutionize the industry and increase the output and territory of a factory five times the latter will prove of very much interest to Janesville and all southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois readers. It is as follows:

Chicago, March 17, 1906.—To the American Sugar Industry and Beet Sugar Gazette.—I take pleasure in responding to a request from you to furnish its readers with the particulars of the drying process which bears my name, and especially with the results obtained by drying sugar beets therewith. I have pursued these experiments for two or three years, but on a larger scale within the last three months, and am now ready to present results which cover the workings of the process from the raw beet to the extracted sugar juices.

A proper preliminary, perhaps, will be a few words as to the manner of conducting the drying operation. The kiln is constructed with heavy walls and air spaces, in the form of a vault, that is, when closed, it has no opening save for the escape of water from the bottom. In the lower portion of the kiln I place large, cheaply constructed condensing surfaces which need not be specifically described, above them, the heating pipes, which are either steam or hot water. The material to be dried is placed above these pipes and is either movable on conveyors or stationary, as the case may be.

In constructing these dryers for beets, I may say here that the plan would be to have a moderate sized plant in each neighborhood, where considerable quantities of beets are grown; the farmers would deliver the beets at this drying plant, where they would be washed and sliced, as is now done at the factory. The estimated capacity for these plants would be 100 to 150 tons daily, so that each plant would be capable during the harvest season and for a short time thereafter, say from October 1 to December 15, of drying some 10,000 tons.

This will suffice for explaining the manner in which it is proposed to carry on the operation.

I made tests some three years ago with sugar beets and found that the sugar properties were fully preserved and the analysis showed an increase in the purity of the juices above that obtained from the raw beet. This fall and winter I have carried on the experiments on a larger scale at an experimental plant erected at Simmons, Mich. This is a lumber town where I have large lumber kilns erected on the same plan.

Mr. Z. G. Simmons of Kenosha, its owner, became deeply interested in the general application of this system of drying and we have placed there our experimental plant for testing various materials, and we have tried several tons of beets, the larger part of which were of good quality and some of them perfect.

We dried the cosettes at an average temperature of 135 F., which is undoubtedly the proper heat to prevent any deterioration in the sugar qualities. The analyses showed that the high class beets which we tested yielded the equivalent of 16.23 sugar and 88.6 purity; the sugar contents of the dry and fresh from the same lot were identical. The purity in the dry was 88.6 and in the fresh 87.2, showing an increased purity.

The drying operations were conducted in connection with the officials of the Menominee River Sugar Company at Menominee, Mich. Mr. C. I. Cook, vice president, and Mr. G. W. McCormick, manager of that company, went to Simmons, saw a portion of the beets dried, took them back to their factory and submitted them to their practical sugar men. Mr. Treskow, superintendent, and Mr. Weber, chief chemist.

These gentlemen not only analyzed the dry and fresh beets with the results as stated but they made comparative diffusion tests with the fresh and dry cosettes, thus conducting to a finish the operation of extracting the sugar juices.

The diffusion tests were conducted under equal conditions of temperature and with an equal number of cells. The result showed that the juices from dry cosettes were as fully extracted in eight cells as were those from the fresh in ten. As will be seen by Mr. Treskow's communication this makes a saving of at least 20 per cent of the quantity of water used for diffusion, and consequently a large economy in the amount of fuel necessary to evaporate the same.

When running fully that is, cutting 1,000 tons of beets per day, the use of water for diffusion reaches 1,200 tons daily, all of which must be evaporated. With the dry cosettes the quantity would be 20 per cent less, or 960 tons. This would effect a saving of the fuel necessary to evaporate 240 tons of water daily, or not less than $60 per day. These statements of facts will show to sugar men clearly the several enormous savings that may be effected by the use of this process.

First, by building, say $500,000 worth of drying plants, a factory like the one at Menominee, which cost $1,000,000, will be able to multiply its operations five times, that is, cut and manufacture the sugar from 300,000 tons of beets per year instead of 60,000 tons as now. This capacity would, therefore, result in doing, with an investment of $1,500,000, as much work as can be done now with $5,000,000. This would effect a saving of interest, insurance and depreciation on $3,500,000, which cannot be estimated at less than 12 1/2 per cent per annum.

Second, the experience of all beet sugar factories in these northern climates has been that they suffer severe losses in the latter part of the season, December and January, because of frost and other disasters incident to a cold climate. It is safe to say that this year their loss has approached well up to $1 a ton on the beets sliced; its actual average would probably be somewhat less, but a very large amount, and, of course, as is well known, no factory can conduct operations in these northern climates for more than fourteen or fifteen weeks after the beets have been harvested.

Third, the daily saving in evaporation alone at a factory of the capacity of Menominee, on say 1,000 tons, would be $60, or $18,000 per year.

To summarize: A factory cutting 1,000 tons daily, or 300,000 tons yearly, would save over present conditions:

First, 12 1/2 per cent on a capital not expended of $3,500,000, or $437,500.

Second, by preserving beets as harvested with full sugar contents and purity, not less than 60 cents per ton of beets $180,000.

Third, saving in evaporation $60 per day 300 days $18,000.

Total $635,500.

To this must be added the economies and advantages in labor, freights, markets, etc., of an all the year run as compared with the hurried campaigns now in vogue. It will thus be seen that allowing present operations to be conducted without profit, the adoption of this process and the enlargement of the beet growing area to produce sufficient tonnage would enable factories to earn 40 to 50 per cent dividends.

A word as to the expense of drying at country stations properly raised by Mr. McCormick in his letter appended hereto:

At Menominee they evaporate water at an estimated fuel cost of 23 1/2 cents per ton, 1,200 tons daily, for $280 cost of coal. This cost is approximately correct for all the northern western sugar plants. The average freight on beets is about 70 cents per ton from the grower to the factory. The water can be taken from the beets at a fuel cost of less than 25 cents per ton and the other expense at the drying plants would not bring the total as high as the freight saving on the water itself.

It will be of interest to your readers to know that Mr. Simmons has been a student of the sugar beet question for many years. In the early '70s he and the late Ezra Cornell took up the subject and informed themselves upon all branches of it as far as it had been progressed. Mr. Simmons tells me that he was convinced of its ultimate success, but at the same time he saw that if it went into it with the energy that characterized Mr. Cornell and himself, they would have a long and profitless career as pioneers in overcoming the evident difficulties. These were, in brief, development of best seed, education of farmers in properly preparing for and cultivating of the crop, constructing proper machinery and erecting plants of sufficient capacity to do the business on a safe basis, and, chief of all, the ability to make the manufacturing season twelve months each year instead of two or three.

This was over thirty years ago, and they decided to remain out of it.

When this subject was recently presented to Mr. Simmons and its effects were demonstrated, he told this interesting bit of history, and they stated that the process, when properly applied, would place the industry which he and Mr. Cornell had predicted it would ultimately arrive.

It will convey to thousands of thoughtful men in the northeast a conviction to the same effect when they learn that a man with such a business history as Mr. Simmons, a long career of unvarying success, unhesitatingly concedes that the sugar industry will by this means be revolutionized and that the United States can produce her $250,000,000 worth of sugar (the annual expenditure) from her own soil more cheaply than she can buy it abroad.

GEORGE W. McMULLEN.

Mr. McCormick and Mr. Treskow and the following significant answer was received from Mr. Treskow:

I am pleased to inform you of the very satisfactory results we had by experimenting with cosettes previously dried by your drying process. I am certain that cosettes previously dried by your process at a temperature not higher than 155 degree Fahrenheit and stored until such time as they would be needed for manufacture would not deteriorate to any appreciable extent. These cosettes will give no difficulty in the diffusion battery or at the following juice stations of the house, and I believe that the extraction in the diffusion battery can be carried on with less water, at least 20 per cent, which means great saving in evaporating and also an increase of capacity of all stations of the beet-end.

EXPERIMENTS MADE ON TOBACCO PLANTS

Department of Agriculture Plans to Develop a Suckerless Tobacco Product.

Washington, March 22.—The tobacco experts connected with the bureau of plant industry of the department are conducting experiments for the purpose of developing suckerless tobacco. If they succeed in their efforts a revolution will be worked in tobacco growing. A crop free from suckers would mean that the crop could be handled at a decreased cost, and a crop which would be more valuable because the strength of each plant would go into its leaves instead of being partly wasted in sucker growth.

W. W. Cobey, one of the tobacco experts of the bureau, is of the opinion that tobacco can be cultivated without suckers. Speaking of this subject today, he said:

"Our method of developing sucker-resistant strains is simply one of pure selection. We select the plants in the fields which show the greatest resistance to the sucker habit, and save the seed of these plants, free from cross-pollination, for planting the following year. We save the seed of each individual selected plant separately, and plant them in separate rows the next season, and select our plants for further breeding from those rows which show the greatest sucker resistance, selecting, of course, in every case, well developed plants, which are comparatively free of suckers, and wherever we can find a plant producing no suckers, at all of course this one is selected as the parent plant for breeding purposes. By following this method of careful seed selection and making very close and detailed observation year after year, it seems to be possible to develop a type of tobacco in the course of two or three years which will produce very few suckers and at the same time will give a larger growth of leaf surface and a larger number of leaves. In this way we are enabled to improve the quality and increase the yield of most varieties of tobacco."

The bureau of plant industry is about to conduct a series of experiments in tobacco with the view of reducing the quantity of nicotine contained therein, and at the same time retain all of the original flavor and aroma of the weed. Dr. Galloway, the chief of the bureau, intends to install a "tobacco laboratory" with Dr. W. V. Garner, the chemist, in charge, who will test samples of tobacco from all parts of the country where tobacco is grown. A complete and exhaustive study of good and bad tobacco, whose qualities of burn, flavor and aroma are due fundamentally to chemical composition, will be made. Dr. Oscar Loew, who is connected with the department, has discovered that certain ferments, which he calls enzymes rather than bacteria, were responsible for tobacco aroma and flavor. Dr. Garner will use this as a working basis and will delve into the causes of these enzymes at the same time that he is finding tobacco which have the lowest nicotine constituent. Then by selection and cross breeding he will be an easy task for the field agents to produce a plant with the maximum of valuable enzymes and the minimum of nicotine.

Notes of Interest.
Railway construction work, including electric lines planned and under way in the territory tributary to Portland, will this spring and summer give employment to fully 15,000 men, and a similar number will be needed on the lines building or projected for Puget Sound. Thousands more are needed for the big irrigation projects, and there is already a scarcity of men for logging camps. The dollar that the laborer earns goes farther and passes through more hands than that which is earned by the capitalist, and this strong demand for labor at good wages is not the least of the contributing factors in the present remarkable prosperity in the Pacific northwest. A good many future prominent citizens will drift into the Pacific northwest with these thousands that are now needed for common labor, and they will remain and aid in the upbuilding of the commonwealth.—Portland Oregonian.

The officers of the American Beet Sugar company have incorporated a million-dollar railroad to traverse the Arkansas Valley of Colorado, where the company has 10,000 acres of farm lands, and connect with the Atchison.

Besides the beet-growing lands along the route of the proposed road the company has a factory of 1,000 tons capacity at Rocky Ford and another of 450 tons at Lamar. The railroad is primarily intended to carry sugar beets from the fields to the factories and to transport the finished products to a connection with the Atchison, but as a public carrier the railroad will also be a factor in the freight situation of the fertile Arkansas valley.

About 1:30 this morning the chicken incubator and brooder in the Lowell grocery caught fire from the lamp which supplies the high temperature and the flames were creeping up the side wall of the store and had attacked some paper napkins fastened there when the blaze was discovered by Night Watchman Palmer and a telephone message sent to the West Side Station. Chief Klein and the two wagons were soon on the scene and Chief Appleby and Officer Bear broke into the store from the rear so as to permit the firemen to enter with their extinguishers. The blaze was extinguished in the course of a very few minutes. There was but one chick in the brooder and its life was saved.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.
Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better. It is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines, and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and pure blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from the continued use of them, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

Three weeks are all that are left now of the race for the Gazette trophies and on Wednesday next the first half will be over. By that time the nominations should be all in, though a subscriber said yesterday that the certificates which he had just secured were to go to two new candidates and that their names would probably not appear in the bulletin until near the close of the campaign. But there can be no doubt that in the next few days the balloting is going to center more definitely around the leaders and while it has been spirited from the beginning far beyond expectations, it is the last half of the campaign that is going to prove exciting. Just now the candidates in the gentlemen's list are confronted by a condition which was entirely unlooked for. They are getting more votes than are the candidates in the ladies' list and as a consequence are unable to make their exchanges. But this is a condition that will more than likely be reversed in a few days, for it has long been conceded that in the matter of getting votes men are only the merest amateurs when compared with their wives and sisters. They have always been compelled sooner or later to yield the poles in this particular and the Gazette campaign is not going to prove an exception to the rule.

Wait until they get started and there will be votes to exchange in plenty. Mrs. Mason's sisterhood, the Royal Neighbors, showed their regard for her yesterday in a way that was a little short of remarkable. They gave her over twenty-five hundred votes, the largest number that has been given to any candidate in a single day, and made a new record for a single day's balloting.

I moved her up to fifth place and only the enormous vote that was cast for Miss Burrington of Milton Junction prevented her reaching fourth.

Mrs. Mason has for six years been the presiding officer of her camp and the woman of the order in this portion of the state has given more unselfishly of her time to its advancement. The vote polled for her yesterday, which makes her a decided factor in the campaign, was a well deserved testimonial to the esteem in which she is held. But yesterday was a day of remarkable records. Miss Burrington received 2204 votes, Mr. Hinkley had 2154, the largest number in his list. Mr. Connors had 2088 and Mr. Hemmens 2125, almost a tie for the day. Mrs. Spicer received 1369, Miss Dunwiddle $64, Miss Wills 635, Mr. Smith 432, and Miss Ryckman 159. The total vote reached the enormous figure of 14,620, of which the ladies had 7792 and the gentlemen 6828. It should be understood that voting certificates can be issued only with subscription payments, which means at the time the payment is made and not afterward. Any other construction of the rule would lead to endless confusion and in fairness to all it will be strictly adhered to.

"Everything is impossible until we see a success." Your own business is probably bigger now than you thought "possible" before you became a shrewd (which means a "large") advertiser.

It appears that Dowle is still at the head of affairs at Zion City.

Local politicians are to get together soon to discuss ways and means.

There is no doubt in the minds of the state politicians that something is going to drop mighty sudden.

This judicial situation is becoming more and more complicated and filled with misrepresentation.

There is much that might be said that has not been said regarding the manner in which a judicial campaign should be conducted.

It looks now as though the Wisconsin State League was gradually dissolving. Is it possible this is brought about by the failure of Janesville to have a team in the field?

Among the candidates for the justice of the supreme court to be elected on the coming election is Mr. Timlin of Milwaukee who is well endorsed by members of the bar the state over.

There are still a few days left before election to dispute any argument that may be made regarding the fitness of the different candidates for office. Election day will tell whether a campaign of misrepresentation is a successful one.

BETTER WAY SHOULD BE FOUND

This was a case in which the interests of the Americans and the Filipinos could not be reconciled, says the Fuchio. Chertain. An injustice had to be done to some one, and the "Chertain" is glad that the Colorado beet growers were not selected as a scapegoat to be laid upon the altar of national honor. We hope, however, that some method will be found by which the national obligations to the Filipinos may be discharged without putting the cost upon such a promising industry as beet sugar making.

"GANG RULE."

"When a small bunch of men among twenty thousand electors think they have the right to name the circuit judge for the district, they must not be surprised if the voters have something to say at the polls," says the Monroe Journal in the issue of March 21.

There you have it. There is the opinion of a paper that has not been subsidized. Every voter should read it over carefully and then consider what it means. Boss rule. Rule of the masses by the few. Who pays the judge's salary? "The 'small bunch of men' or do you? You do. Who pays the 'small bunch of men' their salary? You do. Now, do you want the 'small bunch of men' to dictate who shall administer the justice you pay for? No, not if you are liberty-loving people.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

There is so much more in life than we get out of it that it is wonderful to stop and think what might have been. Man carves his own destiny and while he sometimes uses a dull edged tool to do the work it is accomplished after a fashion. Just as an expert sculptor takes a delicate instrument and chips a bit off here and bit off there and soon a beautiful figure appears on the marble block before us, so do we carve and sculpture our own destiny. Man plants seeds in the ground in the spring and watches them peep above the surface growing in the warm spring sunshine and daily becoming more and more sturdy as the rains and dews give it drink and food and the sun gives it light and life. Soon it tops the weeds that grow about it and unfolds its leaves and then it flowers and then matures ready for the harvest. Just so with our own lives. We are seeds planted in the soil. Our Heavenly Father watches us grow and develop. Watches the dew and rains fall into our lives and the sunlight come to develop. Environments have much to do with our development. We all remember the parable of the seeds that were sown on rocky soil and how they grew up and withered and then ones that fell among thorns and grew up and were choked and then the ones that fell upon fertile soil and flourished and gave forth great fruit. The environments are the home—the home influences the home surroundings.

Recently in a restaurant on Milwaukee street two young girls and two young men sat drinking and nibbling at something to eat. It was late at night and not many were on the streets. The girls came from good homes, dressed well and had good manners but there was something wrong. Instead of sitting there with their dissolute companions drinking and laughing they should have been at home. They were perhaps doing no more than many others do but something was wrong with the soil on which their lives had been planted. Their home surroundings were not what they should have been or these girls' mothers would not have allowed their daughters to be where they were. This is but a case of many that exist, that we see every day and do not understand the cause. Each man and each woman is the sculptor of their own future. If we wish to aid in the formation of the little lives that are given us to develop we should begin at the home. We should be careful that the children see nothing that will tend to make them disrespect their parents. We should make them companions, should explain the great mysteries of life when they are old enough to understand fully and make the home a place they will be glad to come to and sorry to leave.

It is not always that a boy who leaves home for the first time to make way for himself in the city succeeds. There is such a thing as homesickness that cannot be explained. A feeling that you cannot explain and is hard to remedy. It is a feeling that comes to many, no matter how brave they may be and is something that is hard to overcome. A story is told of a soldier who had exhibited great bravery in a recent battle being found by his captain sitting on a log crying. On being asked what the matter was, replied: "I wish I was in my Daddy's barn." "What would you do if you were?" was the captain's answer. "I would get into the house mighty quick," the big fellow replied. How many of us have felt at some time that we would be mighty glad if we could get into Daddy's house mighty quick? The boy who goes to the city is beset by many temptations. The fear and restraint of the home is left behind. He sees others do things that shock him at first and then he gradually becomes so accustomed to the happenings he does them himself. He is not a bad boy and if he does not get lonely he usually comes out all right. It is the poor, homesick boy who gets lonely and seeks other things to divert his mind that goes wrong.

Men and women are too apt to shove the shy little fellow with his heart full of home into the corner in this everyday life of hustle we live. Men who had long ago forgotten their own boyhood home are too apt to be irritable at the quiet little fellow who makes mistakes because his heart is overflowing with a yearning for his home. The failures of the young men who go to cities lay in a great part with the men who invite these little country mousies to come into the great graineries of the world. If cities where these homesick boys could go and find other homesick boys and be comforted it would do much towards alleviating the circumstances that exist. The Y. M. C. A.'s country over do this to a great extent but they are too narrow in their management usually to reach just the boys they should. The good boy can take care of himself usually but it is the weak chap who falls from grace through unintentional sinning that needs care and attention. "There is more rejoicing over the one sheep that is lost and found than over the ninety and nine that have followed the shepherd all day and are safely lodged in the fold at night."

WHY YOU SHOULD VOTE FOR JUDGE DUNWIDDIE

To the Voters
If you meet anyone who tells you that Judge Dunwiddie will only get ten per cent of the vote of Rock county, and nothing anywhere else, that all the members of the bar of the three counties of the circuit are opposing him, and that several prominent lawyers have asked him to withdraw and that he refuses and that he can not possibly be re-elected, then

Do not be alarmed. The judgment of those who tell you such things about Judge Dunwiddie's vote is very, very bad; only about six members of the entire bar of the three counties are actively opposing Judge Dunwiddie; and no one has asked him to withdraw, or suggested such a thing; and if the landslide of sentiment keeps on coming his way as it has the last few days he will be re-elected by a vote very much larger than his friends have anticipated.

The judicial contest is getting warm and the people of this judicial circuit are waking up to the fact that it makes a difference where the judgeship goes. The Rock county lawyers are solely responsible for the present tangle. They seem to care little or not at all for the business interests of the county. But for their injudicious action there would have been no contest, as Judge Dunwiddie has given the people a square deal at all times and there was absolutely no criticism of his administration except among a few lawyers who had "axes to grind." Judge Bennett's successor, whoever he was destined to be, was certain to have a hard time of it for his first term, as few circuits in this state have been so fortunate as to have had a man of the ability Judge Bennett possessed preside over their legal affairs. Judge Bennett was not only a great jurist but was, in fact, a genius in his profession. The opposition to Judge Dunwiddie was sprung by a few of Judge Sale's ill-advised friends and will probably result in the election going to an outside resident. Not one word of criticism can be said of Judge Sale, either as a lawyer, jurist or man, and the only regret the Reporter has in the matter is the present dilemma and how to solve it.—Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, March 23, 1906.

Did you see the Beloit Free Press, also which has up to the present time been strictly impartial, comes out squarely now and urges all to unite on Judge Dunwiddie? It is getting to be unanimous.

Do you wish a few lawyers who oppose Judge Dunwiddie for personal reasons, who will not be satisfied unless they can have a circuit judge of their own making, to dictate who shall be elected? Or do you intend to have something to say about it yourself? Judge Dunwiddie is the choice of the people, and the only Rock county candidate who has any chance of election.

GRADUATES GETTING PLATFORM TRAINING

Those Who Will Receive Diplomas at High School Now Under Mrs. J. B. Day.

Though a bit later than usual, the first step in preparation for graduation at the high school has been taken. This year the initial move is different than formerly. The seniors, who are expected to receive diplomas, are being given a course in training for platform speaking by Mrs. Janet B. Day, at the expense of the school board. This training is of the voice, manners and delivery and the funds to pay for it are the proceeds of the commencement exercises last year. The board plans to use the money from admission fees to the exercises for graduation expenses and as some was left over from 1905 this method was considered the best way of expending the surplus.

Edward Ryan On The Judicial Question.

The following communication is published by request. Mr. Ryan is too well known a member of the bar of Rock county for any to question his statements and they are published as the truth. EDITOR, The Janesville Daily Gazette:—The next unfortunate situation that has arisen out of the election of a circuit judge for the 12th judicial circuit, no good citizen can feel other than the deepest and most profound regret; and this regret is in no measure alleviated by the matter and the manner of the discussion being carried on concerning it in the public press.

We have in nomination from our county two candidates for the office of circuit judge higher than whom none can rank in personal honor, uprightness, integrity, ability and the fixed desire to do even and exact justice, and neither of them would feel at all flattered by an election secured through unfair means.

This situation has arisen in a very peculiar manner; the members of the bar of Rock county were gotten together at a meeting upon the pretext that another person not a new candidate was taking, or his friends were taking, certain steps to secure his nomination for the office, and that Judge Dunwiddie was not an aspirant for the place; under those circumstances the bar meeting invited Judge Sale to allow his name to be submitted to the electorate; this matter was engineered by a triumvirate of lawyers whose avowed purpose was the public good but whose secret purpose for reasons best known to themselves is not now being proclaimed from the house-tops and it may take some little time to have them sufficiently developed to make these purposes presentable.

The editorials being published in the press of our county under the supervision of the trimmings begin and end with the assertion, "That it is conceded by Judge Dunwiddie's friends that he cannot be elected," but they scrupulously neglect to state by whom any such concession is made, but seem to believe that that assertion is well adhered to; it will be a "good enough Morgan until after election."

The fact is Judge Dunwiddie's friends make no such concession, but stoutly deny that any such idea exists, and they claim the privilege to doubt the candor of the persons making those statements.

It is industriously attempted to be made to appear that the members of the bar of Rock county are not in favor of the reelection of Judge Dunwiddie; this is gratuitously false and disingenuous and entirely unworthy of those who elect themselves the judges-makers of this circuit.

The fact is that upon an actual count of those lawyers who will support Judge Dunwiddie at this election in Rock county the number is in excess of the number that will not support him; and this too will they do while entertaining the very kindest regard for Judge Sale.

We are all lovers of fair play and none of us ought to sit idly by and permit a flagrant falsehood, even though false by implication, to do the service of truth, and especially so in a contest for one of the offices that ought to be filled by no methods that are not above reproach and suspicion.

Yours,
EDWARD H. RYAN.

Synopsis:
Act I—Maj. Gen. Graham's headquarters, near Cape Town, at the close of the Boer war.

Act II—(A year later.) The Mission house, attached to St. John's church, Mile End road, London.

Act III—(Three months afterward.) A room in Lady Constance Claverling's town house, Mayfair, London.

Act IV—Evening of the same day at Lady Constance's house.

Whispering leaves and murmuring waters have their appeal of infinite sadness when one is in the mood. Sometimes the wind by mere articulate sounds tells its history to the poet. In a time of stress the human voice may express many things which mere words cannot convey, but when it does logic and reason indicate humbly to its full dominion over those who hear. Even to the conversational passages of the play which were often commonplace in themselves, Margaret Anglin in "Zira" gave an emphasis and inflection, an intonation to mere words which added untold meaning to their message.

The poignant cry to the harsh world for mercy and justice rang in every modulation and cadence of that wonderful voice and the large audience assembled at the Myers theatre last evening was completely under its sway fifteen minutes after the first curtain had risen.

The story is that of a South African army nurse, who, as a young girl, having been neglected by her drunken father and cheated into a supposed marriage with a man who already had a wife, and having become known publicly as the cause of the man's death, and his real wife's unhappiness, in a moment of desperation decides upon a bold effort to rehabilitate herself as an acceptable member of society. This moment comes when an Englishwoman seeking to pass through the lines is supposedly killed by a shell at her very feet. Hardly has this Hester Trent, the nurse, established herself as Ruth Wilding in the affections of her supposed relatives in England and put her whole heart in the mission work conducted by her "cousin," the Rev. Gordon Claverling, the slums of London, when she rises as if from the grave to confront her. Her confession and the harsh, unyielding reception of it by the real Ruth Wilding furnish the climax in the third act, and the nobility of the minister "cousin" who offers his love after all is revealed, the denouement in the fourth and last act.

Margaret Anglin is surrounded by a splendid company. Nothing could be more delightful than the delineation of the imperious but kind-hearted old aunt, "The Lady Constance Claverling," as given by the veteran actress, Mrs. Thomas Whiffin. She rules with a rod of iron and secretly knows and expects that no one will obey her. Jameson Lee Finney as "Capt. Arnold Sylvester"—reckless, disolute, brave but doomed from the beginning not to taste the only happiness that could have made him a good man, gives a remarkable portrayal. His idealistic cousin, "Rev. Claverling," is also well played by Charles Dalton. George S. Titherage as the genial physician who radiates the optimism and good cheer expected of the ideal family doctor in real life, whenever he appears upon the scene furnishes one of the finest characters of the play. J. R. Crawford as Zira's scapegrace father, Miss Lucile Watson as the pitiless, inexorable "Ruth Wilding," Arthur Lawrence as the combination of servility, arrogance, and worldliness which goes to make up the Bishop of Wapping, and Harlington Reynolds as the Major General, are all admirably suited to their roles.

CITY'S INDUSTRIES WILL BE DISCUSSED

Parker Pen Company..... Edward Butterfield
Janesville Machine Company..... J. A. Craig
Rock River Cotton Company..... Arthur Baumann

STREET GOSSIP.

Politics are waxing warm. There is so much gossip being heard on the streets, the following bits of conversation picked up at random may be interesting reading:

"The only real ward contest in the city is on the second ward between Buchholz and Baumann. It looks as though the fur would fly before the election votes are all counted. Buchholz is working tooth and nail and will win out or should. However, Baumann is a worker and has a good record for council work behind him."

"That rumor that Emmett D. McGowan is hankering after the flesh pots of the probate court providing Judge Sale is elected to the circuit judgeship will not be done. It was repeated a half dozen times on the street corners and in cigar stores today. One man said: 'Well, I guess I know it. McGowan supported Fisher for district attorney; he had signed Cunningham's petition just because he wanted Fisher's influence with Davidson when the appointment was made.'"

Watt's campaign in the third is still talked of and one young fellow made the following prediction: "Say, in six years that Watt will be the candidate for mayor and say he will be elected too."

The anxiety of Beloit on the judgeship of their own little court is also amusing. A Beloit attorney was up today and used every argument possible to convert his listeners to his side of the fence without success. Present indications as heard on the street show that the average Janesville man thinks it would be a good joke on Beloit to elect "Bill" Bates as their judge. They have nothing against Rosa, but they think the joke would be on Beloit.

"What is this Dunn pocket ballot law?" is heard on every hand. No one seems to know just what it is and why it was passed by the legislature. A few students of the law pronounce it most pernicious, but that ends it.

Two candidates for the supreme court judgeship are spoken of in questions on the situation. Mr. Timlin of Milwaukee and Mr. O'Neill of Neillsville are both talked of, but public sentiment seems to favor Mr. Timlin.

Who will be city health officer also appears to be a favorite subject of the cigar-store politicians. Some desire a change; some say that McCarthy is all right and should be re-elected by the new council because of the hard work he has done during the recent smallpox scare.

There appears to be but little question but the farmers are roused to action on the circuit judgeship to listen to their conversation. They carry in candidates in different localities. You find Sale, Dunwiddie and Grimm, but no Becker, men in the little groups that gather in the "Poor Men's Clubs" to discuss questions of national importance.

"It's the bar against the people," said one enthusiast today. "No, it ain't; it's Grimm against the Bar and the whole D— outfit." "You are all wrong! It is a trick to turn Dunwiddie down and see the judgeship go out of the county, so that six years from now some of these men who are making the fuss can step in and bring it back when there is not any fight at home."

"This city attorney fight promises to be warm before it goes much further. They say that Dougherty has his plans all made to win and that Maxfield will have to work hard from now on."

SOCIETY

Members of the W. C. T. U. enjoyed an all-day business and social session at the home of Mrs. Ashton on Highland avenue Wednesday. Lunch baskets were opened at noon and a substantial repast enjoyed. A letter from Mrs. Grove, who is visiting in Colorado, was read and likewise a communication from Mrs. Edith Smith Davis, who wishes to deliver a lecture here on "Scientific Temperance." Reports showed that excellent work is still being done for the cause, but there is a feeling that considering the number of churches here all that ought to be accomplished is not being realized.

W. G. Wheeler has purchased the fine residence on Court street formerly owned by T. W. Goldin and expects to take possession in the very near future. The Goldin home is modern in all its appointments and is situated in one of the most desirable residence districts of the city.

About eighty guests attended the entertainment, dance, and supper given by the Women's Union Labor League at the Trades' Council hall last evening for members, their families, and friends. A delightful evening was enjoyed by all the participants.

JANESVILLE GIRL TO HAVE OPPORTUNITY

If She Answers the True Gibson Type To Go on the Stage at Once.

Digby Bell, comedian, Augustus Thomas, playwright, Charles Dana Gibson, artist, and Daniel V. Arthur, producer, are perplexed. They have searched for a real, live, flesh and blood "Gibson girl" and have failed. The four who have contributed to the wonderful success of the season's comedy hit, "The Education of Mr. Pipp," have almost decided to abandon the search. Boston presented forty-two applicants and failed. With Digby Bell in the "Gibson play" are two counterparts of the famous Gibson type of American womanhood. They are Janet Bescher and Adele Leuhmann and they play the roles of the two Pipp daughters, so familiar to admirers of Mr. Gibson's series of satirical social cartoons; but an understudy is needed. Cupid entered the company recently and carried away the girl who understudied the parts of the Gibson girls, and now the management is putting forth every effort to secure a substitute. Mr. Bell was at Mr. Gibson's side when out of the 100 applicants before the production of the comedy, the artist selected the types available for the roles; he knows the requirements. Janesville has a chance to bring forward her Gibson girls. The afternoon of Tuesday, March 27, the day of the engagement of Mr. Bell in Janesville, the manager of the company will receive applicants in the office of the Myers Grand. They will be presented to Mr. Bell and the fortunate girl will be assigned to one of the minor parts immediately. It remains for Janesville to bring forward her stage-inclined Gibson types.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, March 24, 1866.—Trial for Murder.—In the case of Capt. Chas. A. Perry, for shooting Shay, a change of venue was granted by the Circuit Court on Monday, from Walworth to this county. The trial will take place in this city in May.

Meeting for the Board of Health.—There will be a meeting of the Board of Health this evening, and as there is business of importance to come up it is earnestly to be desired that every member should be at the Council Room this evening. We hope they will put their machinery in complete working order at once; as the work of cleaning the city cannot be commenced to soon.

Barbarism in Idaho.—At a meeting in the properly named town of Owyhee, Idaho, the following resolutions were recently passed:

Resolved, That three men be appointed to select twenty-five men to go Indian hunting, and all of those who can fit themselves out shall receive a nominal sum for all scalps they bring in, and all who cannot fit themselves out shall be fitted out by this committee, and when they bring in scalps it shall be deducted out.

That for every buck shall be paid $100, and for every squaw scalp shall be paid $50, and $25 for everything in the shape of an Indian under ten years of age.

That each scalp shall be the curl of the head, and each man shall make an oath that the said scalp was taken by the company.

If they punish the freedom with severity in Mississippi courts it is not because any special lenity is shown to the Anglo-Saxon race. We find for instance, in the Aberdeen Sunday South, that in Monroe county, "James Patterson, a white man, was recently sentenced to suspension by the thumbs two hours each day, for two days."

Survey of Rock River.—On Monday, Gen. Fairbairn of Illinois introduced a resolution in Congress, appropriating $20,000 for the survey of Rock River in Illinois and Wisconsin, with reference to water communication between the Mississippi and the great lakes, which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Commerce.

The following gentlemen were chosen as this committee: Fond du Lac, W. D. Conklin; Jefferson Co., W. M. Dennis; Rock Co., H. Ribicardson; Winnebago Co., S. M. Church; Ogle Co., M. L. Edinger; Lee Co., J. Utley; Whiteside Co., W. S. Wilkinson; Henry Co., J. M. Allen; Rock Island Co., T. M. Robinson.

DISTINCTIVE FEATURES OF SOUTHERN WISCONSIN BUSINESS COLLEGE

The Methods Employed.

The S. W. B. C. is the headquarters for everything that is modern and practical in a business education. Our text books are carefully selected and are edited by men of acknowledged ability and standing. We use no texts advertised to teach Bookkeeping or Shorthand in 30 days. We warn all intending students to beware of books or teachers or schools advocating any such ideas. It is waste of time. Our systems of Shorthand and Bookkeeping are used by over 50 per cent of the schools of the United States and Canada.

In Our Typewriting Department

we use only the latest and best standard machines and teach our students the celebrated touch method of operating. Many schools advertise this method, but never teach it. The S. W. B. C. teaches all it advertises and does it in the most practical manner.

In Our Commercial Department

the actual practice side of this work is emphasized. We do not keep our students on a long, wearisome course of routine and theory work. Every day spent in the classroom is a day of actual business experience. The Commercial Course includes Bookkeeping, Penmanship, Correspondence, Commercial Law, Arithmetic, &c.

CLASS ROOMS AND EQUIPMENT

We have our rooms specially laid out into class rooms and study rooms, together with cloak and toilet rooms for the sexes. Our furniture was made to our order and cannot be improved upon. We believe we have the finest equipped school in the State.
